

ment Operations

By Paul Rardin

Well, we're going to get out a special edition of The Everglades News. Plans are all made and work on assembling the material for this edition has already started. The schedule calls for publication on March 24.

The special edition is going to be sort of a double or triple barrel affair. A part of it will be dedicated to the 15th anniversary of this newspaper. Another part will be devoted to the cattle industry. Another part will be taken up with reading material as it pertains to the vegetable industry on the shores of Lake Okechobee. Another part will discuss in detail the fallacy of the federal government in restricting the sugar cane industry in this section. And still another when you like to send a copy of good roads in the Everglades farming section. Brooks state road department is now working to get it that this year. It is the hope of the district to bring us a few first class highways and bridges.

We're going to maintain a mail-away department here in the office during the preparation and mailing of this special edition. So, my friend, if you want a copy of our special edition to go to your friends in other parts of the United States, just get in touch with us and we'll send you a copy of the paper. The charge, enough, don't you think? Maybe you have a flock of folks to whom you'd like to send a copy. All right, just jot down the name and send along a nickel to cover each name. We'll do the rest.

Have you seen the new theatre program being issued each week by the "Patrons of the Theatre"? I wouldn't be asking you that question but you see it is being printed in this office. For many years we have printed a page cardboard program for Messrs. Good and Dobrow. Last week they changed the program to a page affair. It's real neat. And carries a lot of interesting film reading matter along with the full and complete program for both houses for the entire week. If you haven't seen one of them—make it a point to get your hands on one during the next week. You'll enjoy reading it.

Slight Changes To Be Made In Belle Glade's Town Hall

Recommendations Made To Council By WPA Architect

William Manly King, of West Palm Beach, architect for Belle Glade's new town hall, and Karl Riddle, engineer in charge of plans for the Belle Glade waterworks extension program, attended the regular Wednesday night meeting of the town commission.

Mr. King presented plans for installation of specially constructed rooms on the second floor of the town hall, providing for slight changes in the position of the stairway to the entrance of the auditorium room on the second floor. Plans will be changed in accordance with suggestions made by Mr. King.

The council passed a motion authorizing the town engineer to have the town hall, providing for slight changes in the position of the stairway to the entrance of the auditorium room on the second floor. Plans will be changed in accordance with suggestions made by Mr. King.

C. L. Redner, local plumbing contractor, offered suggestions to the council for the construction of a temporary septic tank behind the present location of the old town hall. It was decided that the sanitary facilities would have to be installed according to regulations of the State Board of Health. A ditch will be dug, situated with loose filter and a tile drain installed.

A letter from Atlanta headquarters of the PWA was read to the council. The town engineer requested by the town for re-allocation of government funds for the town hall. AERIAL ACROBATS TO STUNT FEB. 19

Stunt fliers who have thrilled crowds at the Cleveland air classic and other national aviation shows are to give through their respective shows at the second annual Air Show at the Palm Beach County fair, National Aeronautic Association, according to William P. Ives, president of the local chapter and chairman in charge of the show.

Dick Graner, World War ace and producer of many large aviation meets, has engaged pilots outstanding in numerous specialties to round out the three-hour program Sunday, February 19.

Graner will perform some of the stunts. He will perform a stunt, Jim, will do a "crazy" dual flying act. Buddy Batzel will perform a 12,000-foot inverted parachute jump and put his plans through hazardous aerial acrobatics. Squeak Burnett will give exhibitions in inverted acrobatics and precision stunts. Charlie Abel, flying a glider, will make his power landing and give through maneuvers difficult to perform in a powered craft. Clarence McArthur will give a thrilling demonstration of a 1910 model airplane.

Lake Vegetables Lack Rain; Crops Suffering Delay

Cabbages Lead As Car-Lot Shipments Drop To Eighty-three

Cabbage jumped into the lead as vegetable shipments from the Lake Okechobee region dwindled to 83 cars during the past week. A total of 45 cars, over half of the total vegetables shipped, were filled with cabbages.

Mixed carloads numbered second in the list with 17, celery was third with 12, beans and earcote with 4, radishes 3 and potatoes 3. The four carloads of beans shipped set a new low in that vegetable for the season.

Belle Glade led shipment carloads in cabbages, car South Bay was next with 18, Canal Point third with 12, Pican Lake fourth with 11, and Haverhill last with 1. Thursday was the busiest day in shipping and operations with 20 cars rolling North. Shipments on Sunday numbered only 2.

Continued dry weather caused apprehension among many growers. The shortage of beans and other vegetables were being delayed in the hope that sufficient precipitation might be forthcoming. SOUTH BAY GOLFER IS TOURNEY WINNER

J. W. Milligan of South Bay, who sports the sort of a golf swing that golfers dream about, but seldom attain, reigns as the 1939 Everglades Match Play Champion. The former Key Wester, who does some weather guessing on the side, took over the crown vacated by O. G. McWhorter of Belle Glade, with a decisive victory over Charles Fenwick, long-smashing Chicago boy who holds the 1939 Everglades Medal title. The 36 hole match play was played over the Cleveland Golf Club links, the margin of victory being 7 and 6.

The championship was decided after the greens. Milligan, a somewhat disconcerting habit of hitting a perfect shot and then grinning a fathomless surprise at the crowd, took a fourth hole with a hot-rod putter and forthwith took full advantage of it. He made a birdie in 20 to 25 feet. It was a hard shot, but he made it. He made a birdie in 20 to 25 feet. It was a hard shot, but he made it.

Progress Being Made On Contract On Highway No. 26

Detour Built; Keep South Bay-Okeelanta Traffic Open

Favorable progress was reported being made on the South Bay-Okeelanta section of Road 26, according to advice of the project contractor. The muck has been cleared out of the two upper miles of the four mile stretch and the rock grade has been started, a short distance south of South Bay. In building the road, a series of four ditches have been built across the canal and the water has been pumped from the first 1,000-foot section back into the two upper ditches. This leaves the bed of the canal dry for dredging work to be planned.

Another large drabline is being used to remove silt from the canal bed to expose the rock for the drill crew. Still another operation in connection with building the canal of road is under way with cutting a 1,200-foot by-pass from the North New River Canal into the South Bay-Okeelanta section of Road 26. The work of excavation is being done by a walking dragline with a 130-foot boom, stationed on the west bank of the canal.

Details of the treating plant will include the pumping of water directly from the canal to a large aerator being built on top of the plant building. After a period of aeration, the water is conducted to a "launder tank" where lime and soda ash are added to rid the water of certain impurities. From there the water passes to a rapid mixer where it receives applications of alum and iron. The water then passes to a sedimentation basin where it is filtered into clear vials. Giant automatic pumps will carry the water from the well into the water storage tanks, thus completing the involved process.

Greyhounds Run At P. B. Kennel Club

Those thrilling greyhounds are still entertaining many hundreds of fans nightly at the Palm Beach Kennel Club on Belvedere Road in West Palm Beach—and in fact more and more fans are becoming acquainted with the thrills offered at this popular sports meet.

PICKER-UPPER IS AGAIN ON THE JOB

The much discussed hyacinth picker-upper, now reported as perfected to practical purposes, is in the New North River Canal near Belle Glade and will proceed to South Bay for operations there within three weeks.

The hyacinth conveyor, as it is known in government engineering terms, is proceeding in the canal at the rate of 2500 to 3000 feet per day and is now located adjacent to the Old Locks Association to Brooks H. Berrie, operator; the equipment is doing a factory job of clearing canal channels. Two other ones are also employed on the picker-upper.

April 1st Is Date For Completion of Waterworks Plant

Belle Glade's extensive waterworks enlargement project will be completed about April 1. It was announced this week. Belle Glade will have the advantage of having one of the most modern and scientific water treating and distribution plants in the country.

Interests seem to be in the hands of the government and will provide the proper guarantee to the Miami lumber company handling the financial expenditure.

Before the month, if arrangements are completed as expected, citizens of Belle Glade will see construction work begin on the first F. H. A. financial home in this area. The government commitment has not been received as yet but other details in the long drawn-out procedure have been taken care of and receipt of this document will mean the beginning of immediate construction. The commitment of official insures the loan by the government and will provide the proper guarantee to the Miami lumber company handling the financial expenditure.

"According to Peter Muller, contractor and architect, the house to belong to A. A. Patrick of Belle Glade, will cost around $4000 and consist of five rooms and a bath. A fireplace will be included and steel sashes used throughout. Siding and roof will be of asbestos, according to plans. The house, if approved, will be built on the corner of Second Street and Avenue D in a lot approximately 104 x 130.

"Details of the loan have been worked out in an unusual manner by Mr. Muller. The construction loan has been procured through the lumber company instead of the bank as is the usual procedure and red tape has been cut considerably. Labor contracts are to be furnished by the lumber company in addition to all building materials in advance of the government loan. A first mortgage will be taken on the property by the firm. The evident reason for lack of F.H.A. financial houses in Belle Glade heretofore has been inability of local institutions or individuals to provide the necessary advance capital to insure immediate construction.

"If government approval of the house is received, Belle Glade will at last take part in a general home buying program which has swept this country. Over 400,000 new dwellings were constructed through the government agency this year. The Federal Housing Administration is a government agency that lends nothing and, because it pays its way by fees charged for its services, costs the taxpayer next to nothing. The F.H.A. should not be confused with the U. S. Housing Authority, which builds apartment houses, or the Home Owners Loan Corporation, which bailed out hundreds of thousands facing foreclosure. It is simply an insurance corporation guaranteeing banks and loan associations against loss of principal on loans which it approves. In this particular case, guarantee is being made to the lumber company that is furnishing the advance capital. For this insurance the home-buyer pays the premium: from one quarter to one-half of one percent on the diminishing principal of the loan.

Guaranteeing the lender against loss, however, is only one of the services the F.H.A. performs. Its advice to the buyer and builder is considered not less valuable. First steps to be taken in securing F.H.A. aid in building a home consist in applying to a bank or other approved financial institution such as a well capitalized lumber company, for a loan on a mortgage not in excess of $10,000. Application is then forwarded to the Miami office of the F.H.A. Five underwriters rate each application. First, an examiner sifts out the obvious ineligible. Second, an architect studies costs and plans; the house must be neither too expensive nor too cheap for its environment, and must harmonize with its neighboring houses. Third, a valuator examines rental value, location and marketability. Fourth, a mortgage-risk examiner investigates the borrower's character and the relationship between his income and the contemplated debt.

The chief underwriter in the Miami office reviews all these reports and gives or withholds approval. About four out of five pass inspection. If the F.H.A. approves it, then guarantees to the bank or other financial institution lending the money that your loan will be paid back in monthly installments over a period of 25 years. Maximum interest charge permitted is five per cent. Mortgage may run as high as 90 percent on a small home. For instance, a well built home costing $4000 might require as little as $400 down and the remainder to be paid off at about $28 a month, which covers taxes and insurance and interest and wipes out the mortgage in 25 years.

During construction, a house gets three thorough inspections to make sure that specifications are met and workmanship sound. A charge of $3 per $1000 of the amount of the mortgage is made for this service. Builders often put homes through valuation and inspection merely for F.H.A.'s stamp of approval, which has become a good selling point. Buyers do the same, for their own protection, even though they do not take an insured mortgage. F.H.A. has developed standards and has published manuals on planning small homes and on land planning. It supplies no stock plans but it offers suggestive sketches.

Deterioration of a neighborhood may be more disastrous than depreciation of the house. The F.H.A. land-planning division has passed on 4000 subdivisions. Its experts prefer a lay-out with curving streets that provide shopping centers, parks, and playgrounds rather than the old checkerboard plan.

Economies in building have been achieved by intelligent planning. The trend has been toward fewer rooms. The living room is larger, but the dining room frequently disappears. Fewer homes in the north have cellars. Dime stores are worked out so carefully that it is said a bushel basket will hold all waste ends of lumber.

The Act which created F.H.A. was amended last winter, raising the insured mortgage maximum from 80 to the present 90 percent of valuation, extending the amortization period to 25 years, reducing the annual insurance charge to 1/2 percent on the smaller homes, and reducing or eliminating other small charges. About one-third of the mortgages which are being accepted for insurance carry the maximum term; two-thirds show larger down payments and shorter lives. F.H.A. had insured $1,888,988.208 in mortgages

Sabu Resplendent

Sabu, the handsome East Indian and whose costume was a single blue-cloth and turban in "Elephant Boy" blossoms forth in the resident regalia of a young Indian prince in "Dumma" Alexander Korda's thrilling technicolor production, which comes to the Everglades Theatre in Belle Glade, on Wednesday and Thursday.

The youngster, who rose overnight from a jungle wail to a top rank movie star, takes a sprightly white station in the new film, which features him with Raymond Massey, Roger Livesey, Desmond Tester and Valerie Hobson. The production is released through United Artists.

Frederick March, Virginia Bruce and Bruce Star in Merry New Film

The merry romantic adventures of a madcap heikens who runs out on her fortune and into a roving reporter who's out to get her story but comes back with her heart are gaily depicted in Hal Roach's "There Goes My Heart," in which Fredric March and Virginia Bruce romp into the Everglades Theatre for a two day stay on Sunday and Monday.

by the end of June, 1938. Receipts from fees and premiums have gradually increased until they now just about offset F.H.A.'s expenses of $800,000 monthly.

When a borrower becomes delinquent, the bank forecloses, and may either sell the property and satisfy the debt, or turn it over to the F.H.A. for foreclosures which bear 2 and three-quarters percent interest. When the F.H.A. sells the foreclosed properties, the proceeds of the sale retire these delinquencies.

Many Loans Made By Savings Groups Throughout State

Report Shows 48 Federal Groups Operating In Florida

A total of 3,074 home loans were made by the 48 federal savings and loan associations in Florida during 1938, setting new records of service to their communities, officials of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced this week. The statistics were based on reports received from the associations. O. K. LaRoque, President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem, and George W. Tompkins, Executive Secretary of the Florida Savings, Building and Loan League.

These associations closed the year with 23,849 savers listed as members, whose savings had reached a total of $17,822,000 on December 31, another indication of the way Florida people are making their money. Savings increased $7,880,600 during the 12 months. Figures for the local Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association of Belle Glade show that for the past year, 63 savers were listed as members and their savings totaled $21,000 on December 31. Savings increased $2,100 during the 12 months.

Such savings are fully protected up to $5,000 per person by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, a $11,000,000 Federal Government institution. As a result of these locally-owned and managed thrift, home and financing institutions, under national charter and supervision, grew to $28,010,140 in the year, $9,857,010 above the figure 12 months before.

Large Crowd Hears Evangelist Head

Unusually large crowds have attended the services conducted by Evangelist Wilbur L. Head and his wife under the big tent in Belle Glade during the past week. Extra seats have been provided to care for the overflow and much good has already been accomplished by the strong and entertaining messages of the evangelist and the fine music conducted by Mrs. Head, according to the announcement of Dr. W. Marion Sentell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, sponsor of the meeting.

Three great services are announced for Sunday. The visiting evangelist will address the Hillsborough County Assembly, held at the church at 4:30 Sunday morning. This is to be followed by a sermon at eleven o'clock. At 2:30 p. m. there is to be a Great Meeting for everybody at the tent. This promises to be one of the greatest services of the whole series. Special offers are being made to get a large representative crowd to that service. Several special services are being arranged for the following week. One is to be a special sermon to women on the topic "Our Women, God and Us" with the pastor present, Monday night. Later in the week, probably Wednesday night, the evangelist will present a special sermon to men with his wives present, on the topic "Our Men, God and Us." Tuesday night will be devoted to a Sacred Concert and a gospel appeal.

These meetings will continue for at least another week. Under the sponsorship of the First Baptist Church and its pastor, the services are for everybody. The evangelist's cooperation and shows is encouraging and prophesy still greater things for the future coming religiously. All people of all faiths and no faith are not only invited but urged to attend all of these special services. Those who cannot will not have to be urged to come the second time.

Water Table Lower Than in Many Years

The long drought in the upper Everglades winter vegetable and cane growing area has lowered the ground water table to the point where growing crops would be severely damaged. In order to relieve this condition the drainage galleys all over the South Florida Conservancy district have been siphoning in water from the main canals, such as the North New River, Miami and Hillsborough at the lake end of the various pumping districts into the drainage ditches and permitting it to spread by gravity thus raising the water table all over the district.

The water at the lower end of the district in the Hillsborough canal near Six Mile Bridge is reported to have been raised 14 inches, according to the operator of the pump, Mr. J. E. Cane. This operation is very economical as no fuel is needed except to start the pump on February 1 of this time a day. The engine is immediately started and the siphon action is started.

The ordinance requiring additional occupational license fees from drug and sundry stores containing luncheonette departments was passed on second and final reading.

Karl Riddle presented documents for signature by Mayor Wells and completing arrangements with the Hillsborough Conservancy Commission.

Chairman Greer told the council that the proposed slink rink would not be built on property adjacent to the Hillsborough canal bridge. Further efforts to locate the building elsewhere are under way, he stated.

Present Muller, local contractor, presented objections to the alleged smoke issuing from boiler stacks on Lonnie Warren's laundry building. He stated that the discharge of such smoke and fumes would prevent the acceptance of a building project by the F.H.A. proposed for erection on a lot at the corner of Second Street and Hillsborough Canal road. The house, if built, will be financed by Dr. W. J. White. The council discussed the matter but was unable to act because of lack of jurisdiction, Belle Glade having no zoning ordinance.

The town building inspector was ordered to examine plans and specifications of C. E. Beck's new store building and grant license for same, if approved.

scales for steel tie rodmen was ordered changed from 75c to $1.00 and that of floor tile setgers from $1.00 to $1.25. These scales are standard for this section, the letter reported. A motion was made accepting the revised wage scale and the matter referred to Attorney Beck for further action.

Another letter from PWA headquarters was read suggesting the placing of an ornamental bronze identification plaque on a suitable section of PWA buildings in connection with the waterway and town hall projects. The letter suggested that a requisition for the plaque be included in the next grant requisition.

The council acted to accept dedication of property, belonging to H. A. Broadbeck and Bertha E. Broadbeck of Belle Glade and located in the terminal sub-division of the packing house section. The dedication will be filed in county records.

Would Locate Tank On New Park Site

A motion that the new 100-foot water tank, to be erected by the Belle Glade WPA water extension project, be placed in a section of the proposed municipal park site adjoining the waterway planned shuffleboard courts was passed by members of the Belle Glade council.

A. E. Kirchman, in cooperation with architect Gould, decided to recommend the changing of plans for location from the park extension near the road to a place more centrally located within the park boundaries. Location of the tank at the place approved will enable floodlights to be placed on the tank supports affording excellent facilities for night use of the courts, said Commissioner Kirchman.

It was also tentatively decided to erect a fence around the tank supports to prevent children from climbing the structure.
